10,000 AT SCOTSDALE

SCOTSDALE, June 24.—Never in the history of this town was there such a crowd as that which gathered here last night to see Company D and Company E of the Tenth Regiment of war. The oldest residents say they cannot remember a jam of anything like the one which paid homage to the National Guard. One estimate fixed the number at 10,000.

Stores had been closed and the United States Steel Corporation shut down its mills for an hour so as to allow its employees to be on hand when the soldiers left. Music was furnished by the G. A. Band and the Klugeville Band.

A committee composed of Chief of Police Frank McCord, Hon. James Keegan, Joseph Steiner and C. W. Cunningham was instrumental in having the trains stay over in Scottdale for a while before continuing through to Greensburg.

The train bearing Company D left Mount Pleasant at 8:15 and arrived at Scottdale about 20 minutes later.

LEAVE GREENSBURG 9:40

GREENSBURG, June 24.—It is estimated that fully 20,000 people saw the Tenth Regiment leave for Mount Gretna here last night. From 8 o'clock until the train pulled out at 9:40 P. M., the streets were thronged. An organized demonstration with a parade of patriotic orders was held at 7 o'clock, the soldiers participating in the march to the Pennsylvania station. The big train of 11 coaches, one Pullman sleeper, four box cars and a gondola pulled into the Greensburg station at 9:30 with Company D of Connellsville and Company E of Mount Pleasant on board. Each company occupied three coaches. Company D boarded the special immediately and in 10 minutes the boys were off. They were due to arrive at Mount Gretna at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Colonel Richard Coulter, Major Henry W. Coulter, Captain Archibald Powell and Rev. Charles Schall boarded the train here.

Company M of Latrobe boarded the train when it arrived there shortly after 10 o'clock. There were close to 400 men on board leaving Latrobe.

SOMERSET TO FRONT

Company C of Somerset was given a rousing sendoff when it entrained last evening. Following is the roster of the company:

Samuel S. Crouse, sergeant; George S. Sember, corporal; Lewis G. Lambert, Jr., corporal; George H. Saylor, corporal; Russell Pifer, corporal; Ross Davis, cook; W. W. Criss, cook; Walter B. Jones, musician; Oran L. Shaulis, artificer.

Schrock, Walter Saylor, Roy Saylor, John P. Snyder, Deway Smith, Arthur Traup, James Varner, Ralph Welmer, John U. Weighley, Orlando H. Weiss, William Zimmerman, Andrew Gates, James Casey.

RECRUITS STILL COMING. Lieutenant John M. Robinson of Company D, who with Charles Robinson, William Robinson and John Joy were left behind in charge of recruiting, expressed surprise this morning that more had not enlisted. There is little doubt but that the men will be active service on the border, he said, and that prospect should please any man with good red blood in his veins.

Lieutenant Robinson is expecting a big turnout of recruits this afternoon. He hopes to leave for Mount Gretna at the earliest possible date, and he confidently hopes to fill the ranks of the company this afternoon.

Those who have joined the colors since Company D left include the following:

Robert J. Keffer, Connellsville; Allen Burnett, Uniontown; Frank C. Thrasher of Star Junction; Julius H. Frieburg, Moyer; George M. Strickler, Jr., Vanderbilt; George Hiles, Oliver No. 3; Robert D. LOCAL GIRL A NURSE. Miss Winona Giles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Giles of the South Side, will probably be the first Connellsville girl to reach the border as a nurse.

Although information was refused by members of the family, it is generally understood that Miss Giles, who is a student nurse in the Allegheny General Hospital at Pittsburgh, has been accepted by the army and is now awaiting orders to report with one of the Red Cross units.

Miss Giles has about completed her course of training at the Pittsburgh hospital. It is understood that her general proficiency had much to do with the prompt acceptance of her application.

C. T. Giles stated today that his daughter had applied for duty as a nurse, but did not indicate that she had been accepted.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"The first doctor we had of my child's eczema was on his face, hands, and head. It appeared in the form of a rash which made him cross and fretful and it stopped the growth of his hair as his head was covered with scales. His face and hands were so itched and burned that he could not sleep."

"We sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment which afforded almost immediate relief, so we bought more and by the end of three weeks the child was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Harry Kruse, 324 South 2nd St., Steelton, Pa., July 1, 1915.

"Reason-Why" Tires

This proves them relatively free from the usual inert substances or "fillers" that give excess weight, stiffness, and grind, to tire treads.

More than 200 different Makes and Brands of Motor-Car, and Truck, Tires were manufactured and sold in U. S. A. last year, 1915.

These totalled about 12,000,000 Tires. Of that 12,000,000 total Tires, the B. F. Goodrich Co. made and sold one-fourth.

Yet, Tires are only one of the 267 different lines of Rubber Goods made by the Goodrich Rubber Factory, which is the largest in the World, with a 47-year experience.

This indicates the "Reason-Why" Goodrich Best-in-the-Market Fabric Tires can be, and are, sold to Consumers (via Dealers) at the lowest prices in America, per delivered mile of Performance.

PATRIOTISM.

Patriotism can take many forms and still be as genuine as that shown by the man who shoulders a gun and marches to the front. Some forms of its manifestation may not attract as much attention as others which are commonly regarded as popular expressions of loyalty to one's country, but they ring just as true when subjected to the final test of sincerity.

When the H. C. Frick Coke Company, Keystone Coal & Coke Company, Westmoreland Coal Company and many other large employers of labor in Western Pennsylvania announced that they would hold open the positions of all their employees who are members of the National Guard while they are in the service of the Federal Government, and also pay them the difference between their regular salaries and the pay they will receive as soldiers, patriotism found expression in a form no less commendable and praiseworthy than that of the citizen volunteering as a soldier. The employee has proven his loyalty to his country by offering to share the dangers of the camp and battlefield; the employer in the same fine spirit has evidenced his disposition to share the burdens and lighten the sacrifice which may be imposed upon the country's defenders.

The employee has not been obligated to volunteer, neither has the employer been obligated to provide for the deficiencies in the soldier's pay, but both have been inspired by the same patriotic loyalty and each seeks to give expression to it which differs in manner and form but not in degree or kind.

DISCOVERED.

Henry C. Frick has been discovered again. This time it was his right hand that was giving to the common schools of Pittsburgh without the knowledge of his left. The information was introduced to Uncle John Bronckhorst. The philanthropy consisted of a fund for vacation training of the teachers. This fund finally reached $250,000 and the donor added another $250,000, giving the Educational Commission a revenue of some $500,000 for a period of five years. The proceeds in this connection made it necessary to disclose the name of Mr. Frick as the donor of the fund. This moves the Pittsburgh Gazette Times to remark:

"Sufficient to say that by this rich endowment in behalf of the education of the masses Mr. Frick has discovered all the falterings connected with the accumulation of great wealth no common in the minds of many people. By devoting a vast sum to the betterment of the state of public school education, Mr. Frick has written a new page in the wise use of money and has placed his name very high on the roll of those who have transformed wealth into the advancement of civilization and the creation of a higher standard of American citizenship."

J. Deany O'Neill, the McKeesport merchant, has developed into something of a political force and the habit of giving jobs to his children and short men jobs to their parents who won't go along with them. He has held some important and profitable county offices, and having failed of reelection as County Commissioner of Allegheny county, Governor Hays directed the care of him by appointing him Insurance Commissioner. The salary is $7,500 annually with no responsibility. The clock ticks the office and he brings him the pay check on a silver salver. Verily, to him who hath shall be given.

The Roosevelt support is gradually shifting to Hughes.

Company D has marched to the front without having taken any trained men along. How thoughtful in the men.

The dependent soldier relief bill has made its appearance in the Senate. Indicating a desire in Congress for prompt action. Such action seems necessary in view of the fact that some of the soldiers are waiting for large families with small support.

Japan finds it advisable to assault us that she is not backing Mexico.

Connellsville closed up to speed the soldiers on their way.

The fire department is being called frequently. It is making up for lost time.

Company D was not fully recruited, but this work will be completed in a day or two at the latest. There are no lack of applications.

Building steel may be a bit scarce but it is still available on short notice.

The Allegheny shopped are available for train and bus in new there is an attempt to tie up the line between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Connellsville will have better telephone service. The Western Union will supply a four-foot wire.

Company D had at least one war bride and might have had a few more. The girls had been given a better chance.

Russia is a good customer of this country. The Russians may be here and the Russians may be here, but they are not a good customer of this country.

Villa has come to life again and is ready to fight under the flag.

Company D will be known as the "Ghosts of the Front" and the high men of the regiment.

This time the soldier has went according to schedule.

Editorial Wisdom

The Uniontown Herald thinks it is passing strange that a man will work like a slave for 60 weeks in order to be thoroughly uncomfortable during a two weeks' vacation.

The Philadelphia North American, with a keen discernment of the signs of the times, concludes that it is only eating a poisonous fruit to see that the progressive party is a political entity, is facing a well-nigh hopeless situation.

The Donora Herald, mentioning the fashion note that ladies dress have returned, wonders at the innovation inasmuch as there is little room for dots on the average feminine garment of the day.

The Dunstable Call uses a forgotten truth in saying that a town never loses anything by extending a royal welcome to every desirable stranger who appears in her midst. Hospitality is a priceless gem and a true virtue.

The Canonsburg Notes, speaking from observation rather than experience, it is believed, notes that many a couple that is quietly married there after a long and quiet manner there after.

Lawyers

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slawak."

This essay is going to be a great rebuke to lawyers, because it is going to tell all about them in a way which, whereas, a good lawyer cannot tell through the veil of an indignant for children sitting in law that long words, many of which are as long as a ball snake.

A lawyer is a passenger to prosperity on the wheels of justice and he usually rides alone. He is the only man who can explain a law and tell what it means without making a client's analysis. This is because all of our laws are made by lawyers. A lawyer gets $2,000 a year and millions for making laws and $20,000 a year for telling what he means when he writes them. And if he is a particularly bad lawyer he can afterwards earn $20,000 a year by demonstrating to the Supreme Court that they are no good anyway.

It is a lawyer's business to protect mankind against villains, reformers, justice, industry and other lawyers. For this he receives a retaining fee which is a sort of blackmail to the rope to keep him from going over to the other side. This is because if he goes over to the other side he is not a lawyer any more.

This is not fixed by law, but is merely more than the client should be able to pay in a lifetime if he is a lawyer.

WHAT DID YOU HAVE FOR SUPPER ON OR ABOUT FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1864? ANSWER, YES OR NO

Lawyers are very wise. They are very wise and use hundreds of heavy imported words which the ordinary man could not even hear. The words are written in large purple words which prevent common people from reading with them and reading what doesn't concern them. The bible was originally published in this manner but was translated later, and this is what will happen to the law books some day. When this happens lawyers will no longer be able to earn a tremendous amount of money and their mendacious, unadulterated and other jagged words will be of no use to them.

Some lawyers are very honest and will not be except to a jury. Others are not so particular. It is easy to tell whether a lawyer is honest or not by the size of his fee. If he leaves the client anything after he has won a judgment for him he is either honest or so careless that he is a reproach to his profession.

MOUNT PLEASANT GIVES COMPANY E ROUSING SENDOFF

VETERANS PAY THEM HOMAGE

Spanish War Veterans Have Largest Turnout Since They Returned From the Philippines Veterans Urge Sons to Give Their Services.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, June 24.—Mount Pleasant afforded the soldiers boys of Company E a rousing sendoff. In the parade to the depot was a large number of automobiles leading the G. A. R., the ladies of the G. A. R., the P. O. S. of A., and others. First Lieutenant William Stevenson and Sergeant Robert Faust were left behind to recruit more men. Attorneys Arthur Byrne and Jack Kennedy, and Superintendent Edward Byrne and John O'Brien, have been given until Monday to put their business affairs in shape and will go to Mount Gretna there.

The parade formed in front of the armory. In it were the Municipal Band, Robert Goodman's Drum Corps and the older men's drum corps, the Cantons, Moose, I. O. O. F., and veterans of foreign wars, with the largest turnout that they have had since they returned from the Philippines and had their anniversary here.

The crowd was one of the largest in the history of the town. It stayed right at the depot until the train pulled out at 8:15 o'clock. The cheers that went after the boys could be heard for blocks. One man who served in the Civil War urged his son to go if his country needed him and the boy walked to the armory and enlisted, signing his papers without hesitation. Another father who had one son in told his married son to bring his family to him and answer the call. The son did this and went to the armory and enlisted.

Captain, James Zundell, Mount Pleasant.
First Lieutenant, William Stevenson, Mount Pleasant.
Second Lieutenant, Fred O. Stillwagon, Mount Pleasant.
First sergeant, vacant.
Quartermaster, Sergeant, John Walker, Jr., Mount Pleasant.

On discussing the situation we determined that our best course was to continue to coast round the plateau in the hope of finding some other means of reaching the top. The line of cliffs, which had descended considerably in height, had already begun to trend from west to north, and if we could take this as representing the arc of a circle the whole circumference could not be very great. At the worst, then, we should be back in a few days at our starting point.

We made a march that day which totaled some two and twenty miles without any change in our prospects. I may mention that our uneventful march was that in the continental habit which we have ascended since we abandoned our canoes. We have risen to no less than 12,000 feet above sea level, hence there is a considerable change both in the temperature and in the vegetation. We have shaken off some of that horrible insect life which is the bane of tropical travel. A few palms still survive and many tree ferns, but the Amazonian trees have been all left behind. It was pleasant to see the convolvulus, the passion flower and the begonia, all reminding me of home here among these inhospitable rocks. There was a red beakia just the same color as one that is kept in a pot in the window of a certain villa in Southampton. But I am drifting into private recollections.

CHAPTER X.

Summerlee No Longer Skeptical.

THAT night—I am still speaking of the first day of our circumnavigation of the plateau—a great experience awaited us and one which forever set at rest any doubt which we could have had as to the wonders so near us.

What occurred was this: Lord John had shot an aoud, which is a small, plinkie animal, and, half of it having been given to the Indians, we were cooking the other half upon our fire. There is a chill in the air after dark, and we had all drawn close to the blaze. The night was moonless, but there were some stars, and one could see for a little distance across the plain. Well, suddenly out of the darkness, out of the night, there swooped something with a swish like an aeroplane. The whole group of us were covered for an instant by a canopy of leathery wings, and I had a momentary vision of a long, snake-like neck, a fierce, red, greenish eye and a great snapping beak, filled, to my amazement, with little, gleaming teeth. The next instant it was gone—and so was our dinner. A huge black shadow, twenty feet across, slunked up into the air. For an instant the stars, and then it vanished over the brow of the cliff above us. We all sat in amazed silence round the fire, like the heroes of Virgil when the Harpies came down upon them. It was Summerlee who was the first to speak.

"Professor Challenger," said he, in a solemn voice, which quivered with emotion, "I owe you an apology. Sir, I am very sorry that I have not been true that you will forget what I said."

It was handsomely said, and the two men for the first time shook hands. So much we have gained by this clear vision of our first pterodactyl. It was worth a stolen supper to bring two such men together.

On the sixth day we completed our first circuit of the cliffs and found ourselves back at the first camp beside the isolated plateau of rock. We were a disconsolate party, for nothing could have been more minute than our investigation, and it was absolutely certain that there was no single point where the most active human being could possibly hope to scale the cliff. The place which Maple White's chalk marks had indicated as his own means of access was now entirely impassable.

What were we to do now? Our stores of provisions, supplemented by our guns, were holding out well, but the day must come when they would need replenishment. In a couple of months the rains might be expected, and we should be washed out of our camp. The rock was harder than marble, and any attempt at cutting a path for so great a height was more than our time or resources would admit. No wonder that we looked gloomily at each other that night and sought our blankets with badly a word exchanged. I remember that as I dropped off to sleep my last recollection was that Challenger was snoring, like a monstrous bullfrog, by the fire, his huge head in his hands, snoring apparently in the deepest thought and entirely oblivious to the good night which I wished him.

But it was a very different Challenger who greeted us in the morning—a Challenger with contentment and self-congratulation shining from his whole person. He faced us as we assembled for breakfast with a deprecating false modesty in his eyes, as who should say, "I know that I deserve all that you can say, but I pray you to spare my blushes by not saying it." His beard bristled excitedly, his chest was thrown out and his hand was thrust into the front of his jacket. So, in his fancy, may he see himself sometimes gracing the vacant pedestal in Trafalgar square and adding one more to the horrors of the London Streets.

"Pardon!" he cried, his teeth shining through his beard. "Gentlemen, you may congratulate me and we may congratulate each other. The problem is solved."

"You have found a way up?"

"I venture to think so."

"And where?"

"For answer he pointed to the spire-like pinnacle upon our right."

"Our faces, or mine at least, fell as we surveyed it. That it could be climbed we had our companion's assurance, but a horrible abyss lay between it and the plateau."

"We can never get across!" I gasped.

"We can at least all reach the summit," said he. "When we are up I may be able to show you that the resources of an inventive mind are not yet exhausted."

After breakfast we unpacked the bundle in which our leader had brought his climbing accessories. From it he took a coil of the strongest and lightest rope, which was 150 feet in length, with climbing ladders, chains and other devices. Lord John was an experienced mountaineer, and Summerlee had done some rough climbing at various times, so that I was really the novice at rock work of the party. But my strength and activity may have made up for my want of experience.

It was not in reality a very stiff task, though there were moments which made my hair bristle upon my head. The first half was perfectly easy, but from there upward it became continually steeper until for the last fifty feet we were literally clinging with our fingers and toes to tiny ledges and crevices in the rock. I could not have accomplished it nor could Summerlee if Challenger had not gained the summit (it was extraordinary to see such activity in so unworldly a creature) and there fixed the rope at the top of the cliff. The whole thing was a feat which grew there. With this as our support we were soon able to scramble up the jagged wall until we found ourselves upon the small grassy platform, some twenty-five feet each way, which formed the summit.

The first impression which I received when I had recovered my breath was of the extraordinary view over the country which we had traversed. The whole Brazilian plain seemed to lie beneath us, extending away and away until it ended in the blue mists upon the farthest sky line. In the foreground was the long slope, strewn with rocks and dotted with tree ferns. Farther off in the middle distance, looking over the saddleback hill, I could just see the yellow and green mass of bamboo through which we had passed, and then, critically, the clouds increased until it formed the huge forest which extended as far as the eyes could reach and for a good 2,000 miles beyond.

I was still drinking in this wonderful panorama when the heavy hand of the professor fell upon my shoulder.

"This way, my young friend," said he. "Vestigia nulla retrorsum. Never look backward, but always to our glorious goal."

The level of the plateau when I turned was exactly that on which we stood, and the green bank of bushes, with occasional trees, was so near that it was difficult to realize how inaccessible it remained. At a rough guess the gulf was forty feet across; but, so far as I could see, it might as well have been forty miles. I placed one arm round the trunk of the tree and leaned over the abyss. Far down were the small dark figures of our servants looking up at us. The wall was absolutely precipitous, as was that which faced me.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

AGITATORS proclaim that a Prohibition law can be enforced, and it can—in certain particulars not to the taxpayers' liking. Prohibition would (based on Government figures) wipe out industries, employment, and enormous Government revenues. Merely in Pennsylvania alone a Prohibition statute would accomplish the following results:

CONFISCATE and make useless liquor manufacturing industries in which there was invested in 1909 (last Census report) $160,352,000.

DRIVE out of employment many thousands of trained workmen in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, as well as in the allied branches of trade.

WITHDRAW from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and from this State's counties and municipalities a yearly revenue from taxes on liquor interests of $8,110,149, when nearly all these Governments are now financially embarrassed to meet annual expenses.

IT IS an undeniable FACT that a Prohibition law would be highly successful in bringing about the destruction and losses above outlined.

Effects of Prohibition

Idle Industries
Idle Workmen
No Revenue

PROHIBITION GEORGIA
Orders Saloons Closed UNTIL Mob Tumult Subsides

BUT it is a FALLACY to claim that Prohibition law stops indulgence in drink. Such ban only transfers the liquor traffic from licensed and regulated dispensaries to illegitimate dispensers of alcoholics.

OFFICIALLY and theoretically, for instance, Georgia is a Prohibition State. But when mobs recently swarmed the streets of Atlanta (as reported by the Associated Press), threatening vengeance upon Governor Slaton because he commuted the death sentence of Frank, charged with murder, officials of that city ordered 2200 saloons closed, until the tumult had subsided. Ordered 2200 saloons closed, mind you, in Prohibition Georgia!

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE CLOSED ROAD."—The popular players, Barbara Tennant and House Peters, appear at the Soisson Theatre today in the thrilling five reel drama, "The Closed Road." The picture opens with two New York physicians congratulating each other upon the almost certain discovery by Dr. Annersley of a cure for cancer. Julia, the doctor's sister, enters and states that she left Griswold, an admirer, at the door. Her brother explains to her that the reason he did not enter was because for some time he has owed him a debt of honor and has failed to pay it.

Dr. Annersley writes Griswold demanding payment within 24 hours, threatening physical violence in the event of his failure to pay. A short time later Griswold is found murdered in his apartment. The threatening letter from Dr. Annersley and the doctor's pistol are found in the room. Annersley is arrested and circumstantial evidence fastens the crime upon him. How his sister, Julia, succeeds in having him freed, and having Frank Sargeant, whose doctor has informed him he would not live two months on account of the weakened condition of his heart, face the blame for the crime, later tracing the murder to old Dr. Appleman, who confesses that he gave Griswold an overdose of medicine and used the pistol merely to divert suspicion, forms an amazingly and wonderfully dramatic story, which ends happily when Sargeant is liberated by a pardon from the governor, resulting in a happy reunion between the two leading characters.

HOUSE PETERS

"This is indeed curious," said the creaking voice of Professor Summerlee. I turned and found that he was examining with great interest the tree to which I clung. That smooth bark and those small, ribbed leaves seemed familiar to my eyes. "Why," I cried, "it's a beech!"

"Exactly," said Summerlee—"a fellow countryman in a far land."

"Not only a fellow countryman, my good sir," said Challenger, "but also, if I may be allowed to enhance your simile, an ally of the first value. This beech tree will be our savior."

"By George," cried Lord John, "a bridge!"

"Exactly, my friends, a bridge! It is not for nothing that I expended an hour last night in focusing my mind upon the situation. I have some recollection of once remarking to our young friend here that G. E. C. is at his best when his back is to the wall. Last night you will admit that all our backs were to the wall. But where will power and intellect go together there is always a way out. A drawbridge had to be found which could be dropped across the abyss. Behold it!"

It was certainly a brilliant idea. The tree was a good sixty feet in height, and if it fell only the right way it would easily cross the chasm. Challenger longer had time to change over his shoulder when he ascended. Now he handed it to me.

"Our young friend has the thews and sinews," said he. "I think he will be the most useful at this task. I must beg, however, that you will kindly refrain from thinking for yourself and that you will do exactly what you are told."

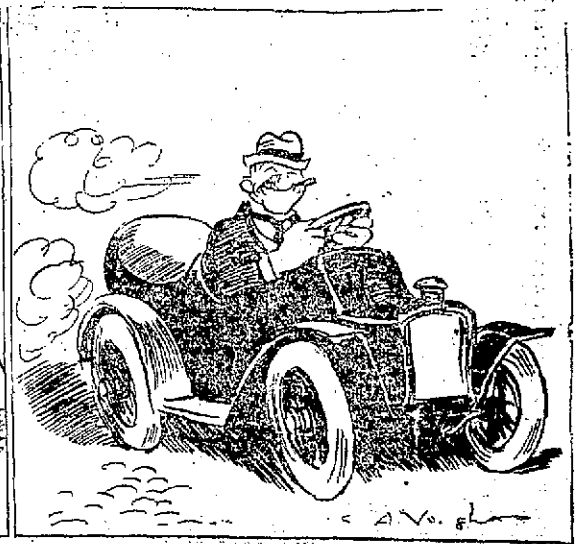

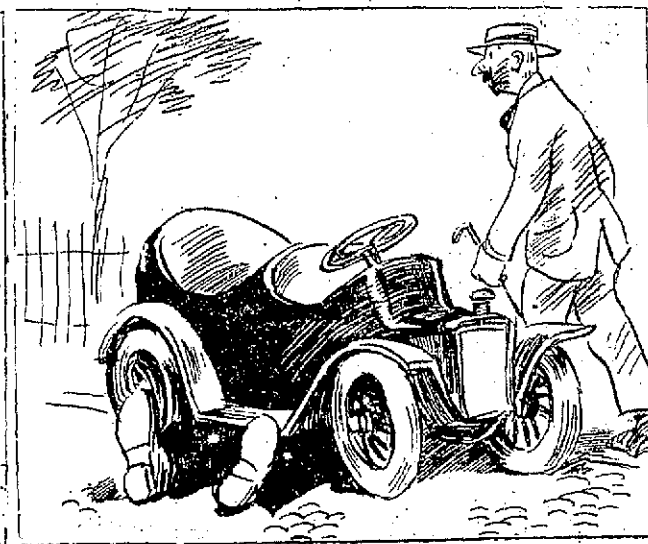

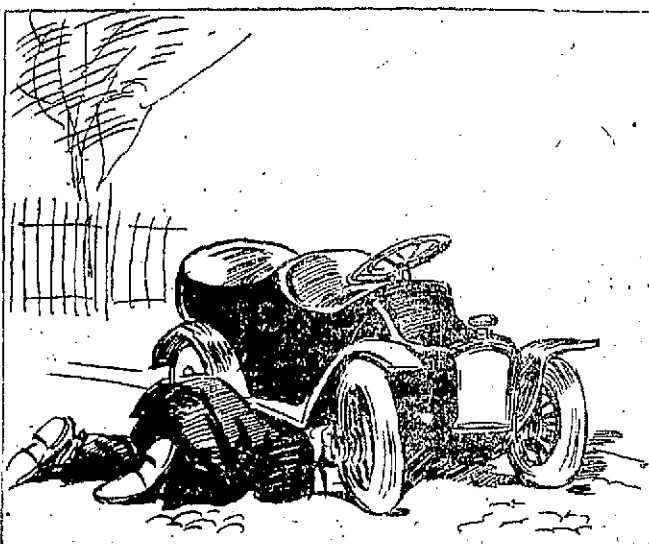

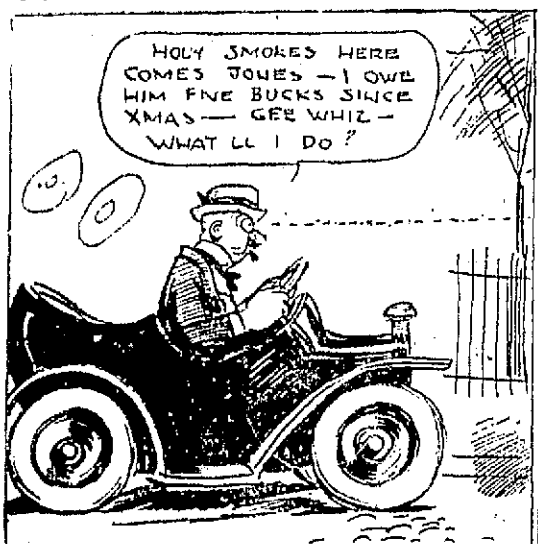

Under his direction I cut such gashes in the sides of the tree as would insure that it should fall as we desired. It had already a strong, natural tilt in the direction of the plateau, so that the matter was not difficult. Finally I set to work in earnest upon the trunk, taking turn and turn with Lord John. In a little over an hour there was a loud crack. The tree swayed forward and then crashed over, burying its branches among the bushes on the farther side. The severed trunk rolled to the very edge of our platform, and for one terrible second we all thought it was over. It balanced itself, however, a few inches from the edge, and there was our bridge to the unknown.

All at us without a word shook hands with Professor Challenger, who raised his straw hat and bowed deeply to each in turn.

"I claim the honor," said he, "to be the first to cross to the unknown land, a fitting subject no doubt for some future historical painting."

NAMES SEVEN OTHERS OF CLASS

Does Not Include Waddell or Cy Young as They Were Through Before He Became a Star; Makes Only American League Selection; Good Ones.

By JAMES JERPE.

Eddie Collins, captain of the Chicago White Sox and King of second base, discusses American League pitchers past and present. He named a list of 12 three years ago and made some revisions bringing down and eliminating stars who reigned superior two years ago.

His dozen premieres picked in the two years are: Johnson, Grege, Powell, Joss, Ford, Walsh, Cicotte, Mathewson, Summers, Wood, Russell and Jim Scott. "Since that time," said Collins, "I would name four more, ranking 13, namely, Caldwell, Leonard, Wollman and Coveleskie."

"Last winter I was called upon for my best six," continued Eddie, "but I couldn't figure six so took the privilege of naming eight. My selections then stand today, as I see no reason for a change. My eight best were, and still are: Johnson, Walsh, Ford, Caldwell, Grege, Leonard, Coveleskie and Wollman. With the exception of Johnson, I have not attempted to mention them in order."

"I did not name the great Rube Waddell, as he was about through when I began. The same is the case of Danton T. 'Cy' Young, a great pitcher whose heyday was a thing of the past when I left Columbia and joined the Athletics. Bender, Plank and Coombs I did not name for I was ticky to have them on the same team with me and not against me."

"There are a lot of good pitchers in the National League, namely: Mathewson, Rudolph, Alexander, Danks, Buckner, Pfeffer, Tignor, Donak, Salter, Vaughn, Marmann and others."

From the way Collins wheeled the ball in eight years we fall to see how he can pick even one pitcher who has anything on him. In the past eight years, Collins has been hammering all kinds of pitchers for an eight year mark of 351. His batting, run scoring and stolen base record is as follows:

Year	AB	R	H	SH	Per
1908	230	30	60	4	.271
1909	277	34	68	17	.248
1910	244	41	68	4	.282
1911	195	32	49	24	.255
1912	164	137	61	3	.318
1913	153	125	54	3	.345
1914	124	122	41	24	.344
1915	121	115	173	16	.312

A BIG FEATURE

Siamese Twins and Midgets With Con T. Kennedy.

One of the greatest, most interesting and most successful attractions that will be here with the Con T. Kennedy shows during the week of June 25, is the European Wonder Show. Under the big tent, for which but one price of admission is charged, are shown the wonderful Samar (Siamese) Twins, and the four French and Belgian midgets. It is a really high class attraction that appeals to old and young alike and besides entertaining, gives plenty of room for serious thought.

The little midgets are perfectly formed, intelligent and handsome. They are four in number, two women, Princess Margaret and Duchess Leoda; and two men, Prince Deminon and Noble Nab. Everyone has heard of the famous Tom Thumb, who was exploited by Barnum & Bailey for years, yet beside the midgets with the Kennedy shows he would be considered big, as he was four inches taller than the biggest of the Kennedy Lilliputians. These little people range in age from 18 to 38 years, and in weight from 20 to 40 pounds, so that the public can judge for themselves just how tiny and attractive they are.

The Samar (Siamese) Twins are six years of age, natives of the Philippine Islands, and very bright for their age. They speak and read three different languages and carry on an interesting conversation on most any subject. These little fellows were born together, and eminent surgeons have declared they cannot be separated without sacrificing the life of one and possibly both will die. They have been exhibited in all parts of the world and are one of the best known attractions in the show business today.

PLANNING CONVENTION

Johnstown Will Entertain League of Third Class Cities in August.

Preliminary plans for the 17th annual convention of the League of Third Class Cities in Pennsylvania were discussed at a meeting at Johnstown yesterday. Committees to have charge of the various details were named by Mayor Louis Franke, who is president of the state organization, and chairman of the local executive committee. Departments already created include finance, publicity and badge, convention hall and hotel accommodations and entertainment. Mayor Franke has forwarded letters to officials in every third class city in Pennsylvania asking that they state the subjects they desire placed on the convention program for discussion. The program will not be outlined until these suggestions have all been received.

Johnstown will unite in its efforts to entertain the third class city officials and delegates from the various municipalities of the city. The convention is scheduled for August 29, 30 and 31. The Johnstown Chamber of Commerce has already created a publicity and information bureau.
